

Conference

Carrie Goldberg

Having a learning disability herself and being the mother of twins who both held academic issues, she founded the Family Resource Center, a non-profit organization that would exist to support children who were having a difficult time socially and academically and their families. With $700.00 in her pocket, she founded the organization in 1999 and has been forward moving ever since. Over the past 10 years, the center has served close to 10,000 children and families. Carrie believes that if she can do it, anyone can! She believes that the key to having a successful life is to develop a belief in yourself and find ways to personally cope and establish a strong supportive network.
